FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NEW MADE IN WELLAND WEBSITE IS A WELCOME SIGN FOR INVESTORS

Welland, ON - The City of Welland's Economic Development Department launched a new, easy to navigate website today. The new Made in Welland website offers accessible, user-friendly information that includes economic resources, community assets, and offers tools that entrepreneurs need to start and grow a business. Prospective developers and investors can also access pertinent information—such as lucrative incentive grants and valuable community assets—including academic and industry partnerships in Niagara.

The new Made in Welland website is an invitation for potential investors across the globe to discover why Welland has become a manufacturing leader in Ontario. With quick accessible tools on Made in Welland's homepage, prospective investors now have information at their fingertips on Advanced Manufacturing, Food Processing, Business Services, and Sport Tourism.

"A website should make a good impression with quality information because it's where potential investors or prospects will start their relationship within a community," said Dan Degazio, General Manager, Economic Development, Recreation and Culture. "The new website was created in house, which makes it easier to update with timely information that investors want and need."

The new Made in Welland website is a reflection of Welland's growing manufacturing industry. For more information on the city's economic development profile and how to build a successful business in an industry leader city, visit www.madeinwelland.ca.
